On a more positive note: An interest in architectural history can develop at an early age. Sara Kumar is a junior in high school at the University of Chicago Laboratory School. She recently self-published an architectural photography book of Chicago entitled Classical Influences in Chicago Architecture: A History and Guide.

Her desire is to educate others on neoclassical architecture throughout Chicago drawing direct parallels to ancient Greece and Rome. Her book recently received a grant from the Society of Classical Studies. In addition, she has started a non-profit with the proceeds supporting the printing and dissemination of her book. Her book can be found on Amazon and it is available for free on the Kindle store for the next ~60 days. Send an email to baopar@syr.edu for other options concerning dissemination of this title.

Selected and Annotated by: Patrick Riley, Syr. Arch'22

Bertoli, Rosa, Hannah Silver, Jonathan Bell, Nasra Abdullahi, Sophie Gladstone, and Laura Hawkins. "22 Rising Stars for 2022". *Wallpaper, Issue 273 (Jan. 2022). p.63-77.

"Handpicked by Wallpaper*, a global edit of the brightest, most exciting graduates in every creative field" (13).

Flynn, Katherine. "Pressure Points for the Profession". Architect: The Journal of The American Institute of Architects, Vol. 110, Issue 8 (Nov.-Dec. 2021). p.60-62.

"The report, titled "The Elephant in the (Well-Designed) Room" and released in December 2021, pinpoints necessary areas of improvement within firm and practice culture to continue building a profession that's diverse and equitable. In this article, we offer some highlights that we believe will be useful to firms, architects, and industry professionals who are working to put an end to bias in the workplace" (61).

Hawk, Michelle L. "From Doma to Daidokoro". The Architectural Review, Issue 1487 (Dec. 2021-Jan. 2022). p.22-26.

"As it surrendered to standardisation, the Japanese kitchen raised and homogenised its surfaces" (22).

Hofmeister, Sandra. "Vom Hochhaus zum Stuhl = From Skyscraper to Chair". Detail (Dec. 2021). p.14-18.

"Gio Ponti's unique path to modernism unites tradition with the avant-garde. It's what makes the design cosmos of this Milanese designer so remarkable today...Anyone who has ever been to Milan knows Gio Ponti" (14).

Johnson, Takuma. "These Are Not? The Models You're Looking For". Volume, Issue 60 (2021). p.10.

"It becomes more straightforward to visualize an unbuilt space when you've already experienced it as an avatar – and for clients, it is easier to imagine exactly what you are buying. The businessperson's preference is clear, but how might the designers think?" (10).

Le Gac, Christophe. "DUNE, Dieselpunk et Beton = DUNE, From Dieselpunk to Concrete". AA: L'Architecture D'Aujourd'Hui, Issue 446 (Dec. 2021-Jan. 2022). p.34-37.

"There are cured films, seemingly unsuitable for adaptation into film. Finally, the film by Denis Villeneuve, Dune: Part One, which is currently enjoying a highly successful run...shows that it is indeed possible to adapt the famous cycle of Dune (1965-85)...and put it in an architectural framework" (34).

Mutrie, Eric and Stefan Novakovic. "Open for Business". Azure, Vol. 38, Issue 290 (Jan.-Feb. 2022). p.78-81.

"By becoming more community-focused, ore experiential an more savvy with their floor plans, businesses of every size are leveraging inventive design to maintain an edge in an evolving commercial landscape" (78).

Patteeuw, Veronique and Clara Leverd. "Collected Metamorphoses". Log, Issue 51 (Winter/Spring 2021). p.75-81.

"If collecting is an art, then there are two kinds of artists in that field: those who obsessively seek everything that exists within a certain category, and those who realize, and also admit, that their collection will never be complete. The Dutch artist Madelon Vriesendorp is undoubtedly the second kind" (75).

Shadkam, Anahita and Markus Moos. "Keeping Young Families in the Centre: A Pathways Approach to Child-Friendly Urban Design". Journal of Urban Design, Vol. 26, Issue 6 (Dec. 2021). p.699-724.

"This paper outlines the importance of pathway design in creating 'child-friendly' cities...A Stronger focus on informal play opportunities along pathways and a systemic design assessment is recommended to advance child-friendly planning: (699).

Tucker, Ethan. "#EmbodiedJustice". Metropolis, Vol. 41, Issue 6 (Nov.-Dec. 2021). p.120-127.

"As the social justice movement thrives and the concept of embodied carbon shifts the climate conversation , architects and designers are reexamining the deep impact of their work" (121).

Viani, Lisa Owens. "Roll, Tide". Landscape Architecture Magazine, Vol. 112, Issue 1 (Jan. 2022). p.72-87.

"So it is really unfortunate that in this kind of world of disaster capitalism, we're only responding to these major disasters after they happen, and then we remember to go back and look on our shelf for all these amazing projects that have already been developed and never been funded" (85-86).

Welton, J. Michael. "Saving Grace". Traditional Building, Vol. 34, Issue 6 (Dec. 2021). p.38-43.

"[Guastavino's basilica is] loved by the community, and its importance as a full Guastavino composition is recognized by professionals worldwide.' With its capital campaign well underway, it's now time for all those communities - local, national, and international – to step up and save it" (43).
